

RMI Consulting, Inc. Continues to Expand Client Base of Public Utilities and Cooperatives in the Southeast

Chicago - June 19, 2007 - RMI Consulting, Inc. (RMI) was recently awarded the contract to provide energy risk management services for the City of Richmond, Virginia. The contracted services include an assessment of current energy risk, the development of price risk management policies and procedures, and the design of a methodological hedge strategy.

Additionally, RMI recently signed a two year contract extension for hedging services with Seminole Electric Cooperative of Tampa, FL and also signed a five year extension for energy consulting and brokerage services with the City of Tallahassee.

John Snell, Principal of RMI said, "We are pleased to welcome yet another municipal utility system to our client base and are equally thankful for the opportunity to continue working with Seminole Electric Cooperative and the City of Tallahassee. Essential in today's volatile price environment, these projects will result in a proactive process for the entities to manage the cost exposure of their energy commodity portfolios."

The new and renewed contracts continue to strengthen RMI's energy consulting and brokerage presence in the Southeastern United States.
